

the bandcamp
diaries.

twitter
instagram
spotify

A spotlight
on independent music.

Mimi Novic & David Courtney have released a brand new album titled “Dream House: The Journey.”

Mimi Novic is one of the most sought-after inspirational authors across the world. David Courtney is a wonderfully gifted composer focusing on cinematic and immersive soundscapes. The two have recently joined forces to release a special studio album named “Dream House: The Journey.”

This beautiful collection of songs is not just another album. A deeply rooted experience highlights the synergy between these two artists. This remarkable work of art allows the audience to dive deeper into their artful creativity and unique touch and enjoy a more personal and introspective musical experience. The release features six lush and immersive songs, including the opening track, “Welcome to Dream House.” This is a perfect way to allow “Dream House: The Journey” to kick off, as it provides atmospheric soundscapes and immersive narrative Spoken Word segments. The second song, Garden of Truth, dives even deeper. Listening to this track feels like advancing deeper into another state of consciousness, exploring and discovering inner secrets and hidden truths. In the words of Mimi herself, “this is no ordinary journey!”

“Forest of Fear” begins with a lush soundscape, as the soothing vocal narration welcomes you into a place that is not meant to scare you but to encourage you to confront your fears and overcome your limiting beliefs and obstacles. Despite the dark-sounding title, this is a very positive and self-affirming song that encourages people to take a stand and value their self-worth: we’re all magnificent creatures, every one of us! The album progresses further with “Land of Broken Dreams,” which offers a soothing keyboard melody and one of the most immersive listening experiences on the album. The track deals with the idea of reconnecting with old dreams and accepting the fact that everything that begins must also have an end. This takes us to the next installment of this wonderful sonic and spiritual voyage: “Valley of Voices.” This track holds a very powerful message. There are so many voices surrounding us: people who judge us or see us in their own ways. However, this doesn’t matter in the scope of the Universal truth we seek. All that matters is how we see ourselves and how we can eventually learn to listen to our hearts before everything else. This is the true path to awareness.

Last but not least, this stunning adventure concludes with one of the most ambitious and masterfully composed tracks on the album, “Call of the Soul.” The introduction is mesmerizing and hypnotic, setting the mood for a stunning and vibrant conclusion to this release. This song feels like the album’s pinnacle. It is the end point of a journey of self-discovery and awakening, like exploring a dream with total awareness over everything around you. This is the end, but is it really? The message of this album is too important and too beautiful to express in words alone. This is where the musical side comes in, adding context and meaning between the lines and using sounds and melodies to match the spoken words beautifully and add more to the experience.

This release comes highly recommended to fans of new-age music and atmospheric soundscapes and minimalistic compositions with a strong focus on spiritual growth and soulfulness awakening.

Find out more about Mimi Novic and David Courtney, and don't miss out on "Dream House: The Journey"! This release is now available on Spotify and other digital streaming services.

<https://open.spotify.com/album/1G0W2K3dvKz2paOVMh0mqf?si=Gb54KxcBT6GEsVSx6exqBw>

<https://m.facebook.com/miminovicauthor>

Www.miminovic.co.uk

<https://www.davidcourtney.co.uk>

Share

Just a moment!

We use cookies to analyze our traffic for a better Tumblr experience. By continuing, you agree to their use. Sound good?

Theme by
STASH